Strand Hugg

("Raid on the coast" in the language of the Vikings) is a name which comes from the open sea and which reminds the Norman and marine inheritance of the Channel's coasts. But with this original band, this tempestuous epic turned into a musical and festive experience which these sailors-musicians invite you to share with them in great mood!

Native of the Channel, they used their musical talents from very different horizons to interpret in their own way the great classical songs of the traditional music that could formerly be heard on the coast or onboard big ships. In addition, the band brings original compositions or faithful adaptations to this rich and living culture. On stage at the big sailor's songs events in the 1990s, Strand Hugg was born in Granville in 1988, has navigated from festivals to concerts, from Sea Festivals to sailboats' animations, along the coasts of France as well as abroad (UK, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Netherlands).
